

Data of Supervisors of the Doctoral School at WPUT

Promoter: (titles and degrees, name and surname)	prof. ZUT /dr hab. Agnieszka Brelik
Division:	Faculty of Economics, Department of Regional and European Studies
E-mail:	agnieszka.brelik@zut.edu.pl
Contact details:	606529592
ORCID	https://orcid.org/0000-0003-0199-2040
Scientific discipline or disciplines:	Economics and Finance
Description of research areas (max. up to 2000 characters)	My research and academic analysis is primarily focused around three groups of closely related issues. These groups include: Multifunctional rural development taking into account the paradigm of sustainable agriculture. Problems related to the diversification of farms into non-agricultural activities and development have become important. The role of public goods in tourism and rural areas. The impact of global trends such as climate change, globalisation on public goods - in the context of rural and protected areas. An important area of research is the concepts of sustainability, tourism and their practical application - exploring the impact of ecological innovation, public participation and market instruments on the protection and development of public goods. Socio-economic development of protected areas. The existing conflict between nature conservation and economic development makes it necessary to carry out analyses of the impact of national parks, reserves and other forms of protection on economic activity and the quality of life of local residents. It has become important to study the impact of environmentally friendly tourism on the development of local communities and tourism management strategies in protected areas.
Key words (max 10)	tourism, protected areas, public goods, rural development, sustainable development